Show To Feature
Sandy Rucker Of Nashville Fame

The Licking Valley Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation in West Liberty has set Tuesday, July 14, as the date for its annual membership meeting. The program will begin at 6 p.m. at the RECC Fairgrounds at Malone.

The program at this year's 30th annual meeting promises to be filled with information of value to the more than 8,000 members which the cooperative serves in Morgan, Wolfe, Breathitt and Magoffin Counties.

According to W. E. Gevedon, Co-op manager, "Information regarding rural electrification developments, improvements in the local rural electric system, and information regarding new techniques in the supply of electricity will be brought to the attention of co-op members."

Mr. Gevedon pointed out that one of the most outstanding developments in the work of rural electrification has been the formation of the National Utilities Cooperative Finance Cooperation (CFC). "CFC is likely to be instrumental in helping rural electric cooperatives across the nation to remain viable and valuable businesses on the rural scene," he said.

CFC will provide supplemental financing to rural electric cooperatives, thus adding to the funds which are beef, tobacco, corn, hay, farming to the funds which are available through REA.

There will be reports and presentations by Mr. Gevedon and by officers of the Board of Directors, and Mr. Gevedon urges all Licking Valley RECC members to attend.

A Co-op spokesman said this year's entertainment promises to be the best ever. Sandy Rucker, a country and western singer of Nashville, Tenn., fame, will highlight the program. Miss Rucker has appeared throughout the United States on both radio and television and is much in demand for personal appearances in the South.

Accompanying Miss Rucker and all other acts will be an outstanding band, also from Nashville, The Tune Kings.

Also on the show will be Eric Adams and his Friends, a trained chimpanzee act, and a balancing routine performed by Kirk and Joy, masters of the unicycle.

Again this year, the annual beauty contest will bring together some of the prettiest young ladies in the Morgan, Breathitt, Wolfe, and Magoffin County area. According to beauty applications from girls who would like to participate.

The girl who is chosen Queen will represent Licking Valley RECC in the Miss Kentucky RECC Pageant in Louisville during August.

Miss Peggy Lacy of West Liberty will be present to congratulate the new Queen. Miss Lacy was Miss Licking Valley RECC of 1969-70.

HEAD START ENROLLEES EXCEED NUMBER ALLOWED FOR IN FUNDING

Dental Clinics Are Underway. Medical
Exams. Will Follow

Morgan County Head Start Director Glen Whitt reported an enthusiastic response by parents and children alike to this year's summer Head Start program for pre-schoolers.

So much in fact that more than the allotted number of students showed up for classes when the program began two weeks ago.

The $42,556 in OEO funds allotted for this year's program provides for 180 students. However, a total of 220 reported at the five centers on opening day, 64 more than last year's total enrollment of 156.

"Unfortunately," said Mr. Whitt, "this means that 40 children will have to be dropped from the program."

Mr. Whitt said that the children who are dropped will be from families from "higher income groups."

OEO guidelines allow a certain percentage of children from high-income families to participate in Head Start, but only if there is a shortage of applications from children from low income families, he said.

A two-week dental clinic for Head Start enrollees was begun Monday by Dr. Arlis Wheeler, Dr. Wheeler will examine all students and treat them for dental problems.

Medical examinations for all enrollees will begin soon.

Drillers for Monitor Petroleum Corporation's deep-test well in eastern Elliott county said Wednesday they were down past 9,250 feet; then admitted "We're lost, we don't know where we are or how much further down we will have to go to hit basement."

"But we are going to the basement wherever it is," said Dick Strickland, Monitor's division engineer.

Slim Ray's rotary drill bit bit a shale-like substance last week at about 8,670 feet, but the shale was less than 100 feet thick. Then the drill bit hit the hard dolomite or basal and again, and was slowed to about one foot every 12 or 15 minutes.

"We are lost in this territory; we've hit something nobody seems to know anything about. And it's deeper now than anyone expected," Strickland said Wednesday.

"We may have to go to 10,000 feet," Strickland added.

Meanwhile, scouts for many of the other big oil and gas companies continued to keep a close watch on the deepest. And trading in leases continued.

Strickland said his company had purchased another 4,000 acres in Lawrence county from Crate Rice and James Trimble, adjoining the 11,400 acres they purchased from Rice and Trimble a few weeks ago, majority on the head of Caines Creek and Cam Creek in western Lawrence.

The deep-test is being drilled on the Cecil Ison farm at Stephens at the mouth of Ison Creek on Little Fork, through a farm-out agreement with Ashland Oil, which originally owned the lease, and two other oil companies.

Drillers hit a good flow of gas below the St. Peter at about 4,600 feet. This was cased off and drilling was continued.

One reason the Monitor well is attracting so much interest among oil and gas companies is because it is the first time drillers have hit gas in the

OLD BUSINESS CLOSES

SALT LICK, KY. — Earl Willis has closed his Willis Grocery Store in Salt Lick after 28 years in business. Mr. Willis is retiring.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article by Mrs. W. O. Pelfrey describes an event common in rural areas, an annual communion service at a rural church. This particular church — Fish Trap United Baptist Church in Johnson County — is situated in the Paint Creek Gorge, site of a proposed flood control dam, which if built, will inundate the area where the 65-year-old church building now stands. W. O. Pelfrey's great-grandfather, James Pelfrey, helped found the church in 1840, and served as its pastor for 3 years. The church, the nearby J. M. Feltner 4-H Camp, and all the beautiful scenic area surrounding them will be destroyed when and if the dam is built.

FATHER'S DAY JUNE 21, 1970. What better day than Father's Day could Oscar Pelfrey choose to skip attendance at his own First Christian Church in West Liberty, where he serves as an elder, and do a bit of research on the Fish Trap United Baptist Church of the Paint Creek Gorge, where his great-grandfather, James Pelfrey, served as pastor for 39 years (1850-1889)?

The church was organized July 11, 1840. It first met in the building where church is now held in 1905 and is situated in the "Grand Canyon of Big Paint Creek" a few miles off Route 460. In 1924 when Oscar was teaching in Red Bush in Johnson County, Rev. J. Powell Ferguson related to him the story of "Father Pelfrey" as he called him.

He described him as "one of the greatest ministers in the United Baptist Church." Rev. Ferguson also told him there was a large picture of "Father Pelfrey" hanging in the Fish Trap Church. Rev. Ferguson served as pastor of the church (1889-1913) 24 years.

On Father's Day, we traveled East on Highway 460, leaving West Liberty at 9:15, just at the time our early church service was beginning. It was a mutual agreement that we go to Fish Trap, instead of our own church. The upper part of this canyon is also the place of my nativity, childhood, and early womanhood. I taught my first school in a one-room school house which was later washed away in a flash flood in Big Paint Creek. My mother, Cora Cantrell Cox (Mrs. Allen Cox deceased), was a member of the United Baptist Church. Hence my interest in the church and the canyon.

In a low gap near Oil Springs we crossed the divide between the waters of Licking River and Big Sandy River. At the Barratt's Creek bridge we turned left onto a blacktopped road, a sign which read "J. N. Feltner 4-H Club Camp." This camp is only a short distance from the church we were seeking. In some places, the road which I above cliffs to the right of the canyon, was flanked on either side by pine trees stripped of most bare by needle-eating caterpillars. Other sections bore native trees of sycamore, cherry, tulip poplar, beech, ash, and holly. Mountain laurel, rhododendron, and fern surround the high precipices of sandstone on either side of the canyon.

Familiar names of the section we observed on mail boxes beside newly-painted houses and well-kept lawns were: Lemaster, Auxier, Pelfrey, Conley, Vanhousse, Davis, and Blanton.

As we approached the church we noticed cars with license plates from Ohio, West Virginia, and many different counties of Kentucky, parked on either side of road (where there was space) and for a long distance beyond the church. We dared to turn off the road into the gorge where the church was located and found competent members on hand to supervise the parking so there would be no traffic jam when church was over. All cars were turned and pointed toward the road.

The church house is larger than the average country church. It was built of logs covered with beaded ceiling inside and weatherboarding on the outside. It has modern furnished oak pews, hardwood floors, and a ceiling heater with thermostatic control. Both inside and outside had new coats of white paint as did the two outbuildings neatly marked on "women." The building is located in a narrow gorge, very close to Big Paint creek. As we ascended the steps to the double front doors (which were removed for ventilation) an usher seated us on the back seat to the left. Three rows of folding chairs were lined in the spacious center aisle but they didn't seat all the congregation. Many remained outside because there was no more space. Although the room was crowded we did not suffer with heat. Oscar retained his coat during service. A beautiful bouquet of red roses in gold-colored urn-shaped vase was placed on a table in front of the lectern by Mrs. Don Collins, florist of Prestonsburg, formerly from the church locale and still a member.

The congregation was well dressed and well groomed, with scattering of hats among ladies, or professional-looking hair styles. Men and boys had neat American haircuts. White shirts with ties prevailed among men, some fully dressed, with coats, mostly without coats.

This was the annual communion and washing of feet for the church. Shortly after 12 noon the church recessed for preparation for the ordinance. An invitation was extended for communion to members of their "same faith and order" who were in correspondence with that church and the Paint Union Association.

Non-members were invited to observe if seating space permitted in the rear of the room. Since all seats were filled by members, Oscar and I, along with many others, sat outside in shade of trees. We had packed two folding lawn chairs in the car trunk just in case they were needed. The water in the creek was shallow and fallen leaves on top of stream drifted lazily downstream.

Just beyond the church a long steel bridge with a wooden floor spans the creek changing the road to the left of the gorge. Oscar and I walked across the bridge during recess but the sun was rather dim and a sprinkle of rain prevented us from homes or barns all these years getting a clear view of the gorge from that point. Back of the church were tables, prepared from 4x8 ft. pieces of plywood in a row and probably 100 ft. long where the basket dinners would be spread to feed the estimated 400 to 500 people present. One 7-year-old, Gary Lemaster, bright-eyed and son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lemaster, looked at his wristwatch and chimed "Mother, it's 2:15, when do we eat?" In about 30 minutes church was dismissed and food galore was spread in a seemingly never-ending line. All were well fed by the generous members and baskets of fragments carried home.

While the crowd outside was dispersing, Lonzie Reed, pastor of the church (1929-1967) for 38 years, and his son, Arnold, pastor from 1967 to the present, accompanied us inside the church where they posed with the picture of "Father Pelfrey" between them for Oscar to get a snapshot. When asked about the Fish Trap Dam which is being planned as a water-conservation and flood-control project, here is (1) LONZIE REED, pastor of this church for 38 years said, "We are sorry to see the homes and church houses in the gorge taken but we must consider that many homes and lives of people in Paintsville are endangered by floods and must sometimes be evacuated."

(2) MAE LEMASTER, member of Low Gap Church, answered "I don't want the dam built. I hate to see the church moved after 130 years. My great grandparents were charter members of this church. I will also lose the house where I now live."

(3) MR. CANTRELL, a young father from Paintsville who would lose his 10 year old house reasoned, "I feel I can adjust to the change much easier than older people."

(4) GUSTA LEMASTER, farmer, businessman and a trustee of the church regretted, "We have had a good, clean community; have never had to lock

But I fear it will be different if and when the dam is built."

(5) ARNOLD REED, present pastor of the church, when asked if the challenge of moving the church might strengthen or weaken his congregation of 231 members responded, "I fear it might weaken it."

Fish Trap Church since its inception 130 years ago has been served by eight pastors. They have served faithfully with out remuneration. The present pastor serves three country churches at present.

In my opinion they have served efficiently, else the present congregation of 231 members would not possess such faith in God and brotherhood for their fellowmen. Oscar and I have been overwhelmed by their courtesy and kindness they have extended to us in our three visits to this community. Could their closeness to God's creation of beautiful surroundings, unchanged by man, be reflected in their lives? We think so.

Earl Pelfrey of Lexington, left, and his father, W. O. Pelfrey of West Liberty, are shown with a portrait of the elder Mr. Pelfrey's great-grandfather, Elder James Pelfrey, who helped found and was pastor for 39 years of the Fish Trap United Baptist Church in Johnson County. These photos were made at the church's annual communion service held Sunday, June 21. The Fish Trap United Baptist Church, nestled on the floor of the Paint Creek Gorge, will have to be moved from 130-year-old location when the proposed Paint Creek Dam is completed. Though some residents in the area have accepted the possibility they may have to move, others have not and opposition to the dam appears to be mounting. The church is near the J. M. Feltner 4-H Club Camp which also would be inundated.

But I fear it will be different if and when the dam is built."

(5) ARNOLD REED, present pastor of the church, when asked if the challenge of moving the church might strengthen or weaken his congregation of 231 members responded, "I fear it might weaken it."

Fish Trap Church since its inception 130 years ago has been served by eight pastors. They have served faithfully with out remuneration. The present pastor serves three country churches at present.

In my opinion they have served efficiently, else the present congregation of 231 members would not possess such faith in God and brotherhood for their fellowmen. Oscar and I have been overwhelmed by their courtesy and kindness they have extended to us in our three visits to this community. Could their closeness to God's creation of beautiful surroundings, unchanged by man, be reflected in their lives? We think so.

bridge during recess but the sun was rather dim and a sprinkle of rain prevented us from homes or barns all these years getting a clear view of the gorge from that point. Back of the church were tables, prepared from 4x8 ft. pieces of plywood in a row and probably 100 ft. long where the basket dinners would be spread to feed the estimated 400 to 500 people present. One 7-year-old, Gary Lemaster, bright-eyed and son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lemaster, looked at his wristwatch and chimed "Mother, it's 2:15, when do we eat?" In about 30 minutes church was dismissed and food galore was spread in a seemingly never-ending line. All were well fed by the generous members and baskets of fragments carried home.

While the crowd outside was dispersing, Lonzie Reed, pastor of the church (1929-1967) for 38 years, and his son, Arnold, pastor from 1967 to the present, accompanied us inside the church where they posed with the picture of "Father Pelfrey" between them for Oscar to get a snapshot. When asked about the Fish Trap Dam which is being planned as a water-conservation and flood-control project, here is (1) LONZIE REED, pastor of this church for 38 years said, "We are sorry to see the homes and church houses in the gorge taken but we must consider that many homes and lives of people in Paintsville are endangered by floods and must sometimes be evacuated."

(2) MAE LEMASTER, member of Low Gap Church, answered "I don't want the dam built. I hate to see the church moved after 130 years. My great grandparents were charter members of this church. I will also lose the house where I now live."

(3) MR. CANTRELL, a young father from Paintsville who would lose his 10 year old house reasoned, "I feel I can adjust to the change much easier than older people."

(4) GUSTA LEMASTER, farmer, businessman and a trustee of the church regretted, "We have had a good, clean community; have never had to lock

But I fear it will be different if and when the dam is built."

Morgan TEC Serves Retarded Children In Morgan Co.

SHE NOW WALKS AND PLAYS—Little Glenna, age 5, could not walk when she started at Morgan TEC two years ago, could not even use her legs. But now Little Glenna runs and plays and rides her tricycle. She had been in three foster homes before entering Morgan TEC.

Teachers and pupils of Morgan TEC are shown here enjoying a picnic at the Oldfield farm at Mize at the conclusion of this year's school term.

A familiar story at Morgan TEC is "Little Black," and the story was made to come to life at the graduation picnic at the Oldfield farm when students got to ride the pony named Little Black.

Morgan TEC, the school for retarded children at West Liberty, started its six-weeks summer term last week with nine children enrolled. The school, which is sponsored by the Morgan County

Mental Health and Retardation Association and funded by local, state and federal funds, is directed by Mrs. John Oldfield, Jr., of Mize who helped organize the school nearly three years ago to serve a big need. Accompanying pictures show some of the activities and progress children have made during the past year.

MORGAN T.E.C. NOTES

A six-weeks summer session at Morgan County Day Care Center for Exceptional Children began Monday, June 29, with an enrollment of nine children.

Mrs. John Oldfield, Jr. is director of the summer program and Reva Napier is full-time aide. Assisting with transportation and as teacher aides are Alice and Jo Oldfield.

We are all glad to be back at school, although we have only been out for a short time.

We miss Kay so much. She doesn't get to come. But we hope to see her in September.

We hear Miss Eunice (East-terling) isn't feeling well. We send her our best wishes and hope she will be well soon.

Also, Myra and Phyllis are missed by us all. Get well soon, girls.

We appreciated Father Ted Stanley coming to visit us Monday. We are always glad to have visitors.

If you are interested in knowing more about us, call 743-4685, or come to the school. We are on the Kwanis Playground by the swimming pool.

Two Laurel County youths have been convicted of reckless operation of a motor vehicle in a developed recreation site on the Daniel Boone National Forest, according to Forest Supervisor, Robert F. Collins, Winchester. The offense occurred on June 13 in the Bee Reck Recreation Area located on Lake Cumberland on the Somerset Ranger District. The area is a popular spot for campers, picnickers, fishermen and boaters. The youths were fined $50.00 each and sentenced to 10 days in jail on June 25, by U. S. Commissioner C. R. Luker, London. Both the fine and sentence were suspended, and they were placed on probation for six months. Under terms of the probation, the youths must keep off U. S. Forest Service property.

A Severance Tax Needed On Coal

Harry Caudill, Whitesburg attorney, author and conservationist, spoke recently at an environmental workshop, and again urged his fellow Kentuckians to get behind this three-point program on a state and national level—

Prohibit strip mining where reclamation can not occur, in the sense that restoration of land to the original condition is impossible.

Permit strip mining where reclamation is feasible, on condition that the work be done immediately and completely.

Impose a severance tax in extraction of minerals and put the proceeds in a trust fund to finance restoration of already-devastated land known as orphan banks.

For too long the big eastern corporations have taken away our natural resources, particularly coal, without contributing in taxes anything comparable to the wealth they obtained by denuding the land. The coal they have taken from Kentucky cannot be replaced. It would have been only fair to the state and to the landowners for the corporations to pay a severance tax on each ton of coal removed from Kentucky soil.

And now with coal in short supply and prices nearly double what it sold for a few years ago, strip mining is being expanded in nearly every coal county. Strip mining not only takes out the natural resource of the land (coal) but it ravishes the land and contaminates the streams with acid water. Which is all the more reason a severance tax should be imposed by the legislature, and quickly.

Mr. Caudill's three-point program on coal mining is one all Kentuckians should work for.

The Clay Wade Bailey Bridge

(The Lexington Herald)

It is rare for a newsmen to get bouquets thrown his way. It is even rarer for him to get a bridge named after him.

But Clay Wade Bailey, Frankfort newsmen who writes for this newspaper, isn't an ordinary reporter. Some say he's an institution. At least, that's the way a lot of people over at the Capitol look at him.

Clay Wade has been around Frankfort longer than any other man we know about. He started there in 1928 and for more than four decades now he's been writing about events concerning state government and Frankfort.

Fair and honest, with a memory like an elephant, Clay Wade has an army of friends. They include the high and mighty and the ordinary fellow on the street. This in itself is a tribute to him as a man.

So, it is fitting, we think, that Gov. Louie Nunn would name the new C&O Bridge across the Ohio River for him. He joins the company of people like President John F. Kennedy and the late Congressman Brent Spence who have been similarly honored with Ohio River spans. Congratulations, Clay Wade, and a good choice, governor.

WISDOM OF OUR ELDERS

Asked by a student if he could sum up in five minutes everything he had learned, the noted historian Charles Beard said he could do it in four sentences—

1) Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad with power.
2) The mills of God grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small.

3) The bee fertilizes the flower it robs.
4) When it is dark enough, you can see the stars.

Brief though Prof. Beard's summation is, take each, carry the thinking as far as your experience and ideas go—we think you will agree little else need be said.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

SCHOOL MONEY — The 1968 General Assembly appropriated $224.6 million for the minimum foundation program for education for the fiscal year 1969-70 that ended June 30, but the program needed $225.7 million to meet obligations. So last week Gov. Nunn took $1.1 million from the state's general fund and transferred it to the minimum foundation program to avert what would have been a financial crisis in some schools.

DAVIS APPOINTED — David L. Davis of Frankfort, a native of Elliott county, was appointed by Gov. Nunn last week as a member of the State Parole Board. Other appointments by Nunn included Walter Fritts of Mt. Sterling to the State Board of Auctioneers and Leona Rice of Oil Springs to the State Board of Hairdressers, and Adron Doran of Morehead to the Southern Regional Education Board.

TOBACCO IN STORAGE — Tobacco in storage will drop 150 million pounds this year, says the Department of Agriculture.

culture. The nation's reserve stands at 3.65 billion pounds, and consumption will reduce this to about 3.7 billion pounds. The 150 million pound drop will be due to smaller production last year and fairly steady markets. Cigarette consumption was down 4% from a year ago during the 10-month period ending May 1. However, use will still exceed last year's production, says the Ag Dept.

KIPLINGER SEES BOOM — The Kiplinger Business Letter again is predicting "a bigger boom in the mid-70's than we experienced in the 60's. Also more inflation." It seems difficult to believe at this time, but Kiplinger predicted the 1960's boom and inflation.

GOOD AND BAD NEWS — Unemployment dropped three-tenths of a percent in June, down from 5% to 4%, says the Labor Department. This is the first drop in unemployment in several months. But construction spending fell 2.6% during May, the sharp drop in almost three years. It was the third drop in a row and encompassed nearly all phases of construction activity, with a particularly sharp drop in commercial buildings.

NEW U. S. MINI-CARS — General Motors plant at Lordstown, Ohio last week rolled out GM's first example of its new mini-car, the Vega 2300, which GM is developing to compete with foreign import mini-cars. Foreign imports have captured 33% of the American market, and GM plans to win some of it back with the Vega, which is 10 inches longer than the Volkswagen, and longest of the four U.S. mini-car competitors. But it is only 4 inches wider than the Volkswagen and narrower than the American mini-cars. GM has developed an aluminum engine that saves metal costs and also requires a smaller radiator. And GM says it will see the Vega cheaper than the imports when they begin to hit the market this fall. Ford has its new compact, the Pinto, developed and will introduce it Sept. 10, the same time the Vega goes on sale. It too has the "foreign feel." Chrysler last week announced it is developing a subcompact for introduction in early 1971, yet unnamed. American Motors captured a lot of the compact car market with its Gremlin and its Hornet. GM says it will produce 100 Vegas an hour in a few weeks.

AUTO SALES DOWN — Though sales of new autos has increased recently, sales for the first half of 1970 were down more than 5% below 1969 sales. American Motors was the only manufacturer to show a six-months first-half increase in sales over the like period of 1969. American's new subcompact the Gremlin accounted for the big increase in sale.

NEW SPEEDWAY — A Breathitt county firm known as St-Bend Enterprises, Inc., has opened a new stock car speedway in Breathitt county — a wide oval one-quarter mile track off Kentucky highway 15 between Van-derve and Jackson.

DEEP-DRILLING PREDICTION — This newspaper on June 20 of 1969 predicted a round of deep-drilling in Eastern Kentucky to test the deeper formations for oil and gas reserves. We noted then that Amerenda was drilling a deep-test in Pulaski county and Texaco in Clark, and that Slim Ray of London was rigging up to drill a Precambrian well in the Big Sinking fields in Lee, and predicted that the deep-tests would extend to Elliott and Morgan along the Precambrian formation. This was based on the fact that some 138,000 acres of leases had been taken recently in Morgan, and several thousand acres in Elliott. Ashland Oil already had drilled a Precambrian well in Boyd and another in northwest Morgan. For a time, drilling was held up by Congress's threatened cut in the 27 1/2% depletion allowance to oil and gas companies on the cost of exploratory drilling. But gas and oil production is now so short in this area, that many companies are searching for new reserves, and the search is to the deeper formations.

OBSERVATIONS AND PREDICTIONS

STRAW POLL — The Lexington Herald reports in its weekly straw poll that 65.5% of respondents last week were opposed to "immediate withdrawal of American forces from Southeast Asia, and only 21.8% favored immediate withdrawal.

AGAINST WITHDRAWING — The Lexington Leader, Kentucky's top Republican paper, said Saturday that Tom Emberton, a member of the Public Service Commission, is "one of two or three young Republicans regarded as most likely to be the party's candidate for Governor next year." Emberton is a native of Tompkinsville and grew up on a farm. Emberton started in state government as an aide to Gov. Nunn and then was appointed to the Public Service Commission. He is regarded as a conservative and a team man.

CANCER FROM BEEF — The Food and Drug Administration says it has detected in beef small residues of the artificial hormone DES, which is fed cattle to stimulate growth, and that DES is believed an inciter of cancer. The residues are occurring in beef in violation of federal law. A spot check revealed traces of the hormone in one out of each 200 slaughtered cattle in some sections. Residues of the growth hormone were discovered in chickens 10 years ago and the Food and Drug Administration banned as unsafe the use of the hormone in poultry production. The 7th U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled that "records show that DES is definitely a cause of cancer in animals, at least an inciter of incipient cancer in man, and possibly a cause of cancer in man."

OLD TIME FLAVOR — Louisa celebrated the Fourth of July with a day-long series of events. Among them was re-tooting of the steam whistle from the former Big Sandy River steamboat, Thealka, and fiddling by Rev. Galie Isaacs on the violin that once belong to "Devil Anse" Hatfield. Rev. Isaacs owns both relics.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Courier—
Regarding the item in your paper recently concerning the old Henry Cabin at Index: I lived with Big Lewis Henry, who lived at Index for nine years and would go to Red Head Charley Henry's house to get my hair cut. The old log cabin looks good to me. I was born on Broadway Street in West Liberty 78 years ago. I hope to visit Morgan and Wolfe Counties in August.

Ky-7 Development Included In Plea For New ARC Hwys.

Recently, the Elliott County Fiscal Court went on record recommending that KY-7 be included in the Appalachian program for development highways.

The fiscal court's resolution supported previous recommendations by Kentucky Gov. Louie B. Nunn that KY-7 be developed as a corridor to link the Mountain Parkway at Salsersville with I-64 at Grayson.

County Court Clerk Wilbur Cleverger forwarded a copy of the resolution to Gov. Nunn. This week he received an answer from State Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss, who answered for the governor.

Sen. Cooper Explains Vote Against Postal Reorganization Bill

July 1 — Senator Cooper, who voted against the Postal Reorganization bill on Tuesday evening, explained his reasons for doing so in a short speech on the Senate floor.

Cooper said that he supported the increased pay for postal workers and had voted to make the pay advances retroactive to April 16, 1970. "My opposition to the bill is the compulsory union section," The House bill permits postal workers to become members of a union if they desire but there is no compulsory requirement. The Senate bill requires all postal employees to become members of a union shop. Cooper noted that he had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act which provided for union shop for craft and industrial workers. "I do not believe that any citizen of the United States should be required to become a member of a union as a condition for working for his own government. Also, I believe that the first loyalty of all of us who are employed by the Government must be to the Government of the United States." The bill now goes to a Conference of House and Senate members.

Senator Cooper said that he would vote for the bill when it is returned to the Senate if the compulsory union section is eliminated.

The American Farmer degree is awarded to about 400 outstanding FFA members each year. Only one member in a thousand may receive it.

Wheat Referendum Set July 27-31

The Secretary of Agriculture has proclaimed July 27-31 as dates for a mail referendum on 1971 wheat marketing quotas. This is to comply with the Agriculture Adjustment Act, as amended. County ASCS offices about a week before the referendum will mail wheat program information to wheat producers, along with a ballot and voting instructions to each owner of a farm allotment. Marketing quotas must be approved by a two-thirds or more vote. If quotas are approved, producers will be limited to their allotment acreage. If the referendum fails to carry, producers staying within the program and complying with allotments would be eligible for support loans at 50% of parity.

At this time the Appalachian Commission has not responded to our request and we have no means of anticipating their answer.

I can assure you that Governor Nunn and the Department of Highways are very conscious of the needs of your section and well aware of the importance of KY-7 to the section it serves. We intend to do all we can to present an effective case to the Appalachian Regional Commission and we hope for a favorable response.

Please convey my compliments to the members of the Fiscal Court and assure them that their interest and advice is always very much appreciated.

Your very truly,
Eugene Goss
Commissioner

SCIENCE ATTACK NOISE LEVELS

Excessive noise may contribute to high blood pressure, heart attack, schizophrenia and susceptibility to infection, says the National Society for Medical Research.

The statement is based upon conclusions of both laboratory animal and human studies, reports the group, which called noise a "powerful stressing agent" in normal people. "Noise is capable of causing even more severe disturbances in some cardiovascular and psychotic patients," they said.

Regarding noise stress affecting susceptibility to infection, the UCLA School of Medicine has reported that it appears that the response is determined by a specific pathogen or disease causing organism and the age of the animal at the time of exposure to the noise.

STATE CIGARETTE TAX IS HIKE BUT FEDERAL SURTAX ENDS JULY 1

The state cigarette tax was increased by one-half cent per package on July 1 and the federal income tax surtax became history.

Effective July 1, the beginning of the 1970-71 fiscal year, Kentucky will collect 2.5 cents of each package of cigarettes. The half-cent increase will go for tobacco research at the University of Kentucky.

The 5 per cent surcharge on federal income taxes expired at midnight, June 30. Last January, the surtax was reduced from 10 per cent to 5 per cent.

The cigarette tax increase was one of several revenue measures enacted by the 1970 General Assembly which became effective July 1. Last week several other laws passed by the Assembly went into effect.

As of June 25, it is mandatory that motor vehicles have rear brakelights. Kentucky formerly had this law, but it was repealed by mistake several years ago during a legislative session.

Motorcycle riders now also can obtain a license. Until last week, it was necessary for a motorcycleist to have a driver's license, which then could be endorsed for the operation of a motorcycle. The new law also provides for a learner's permit for operating a motorcycle. Until last week, this was not available.

Other laws which went into effect include:

Making malnutrition of children a punishable offense under the state's child-abuse law.

Lowering to 18 the age which persons are eligible to serve on juries. Until last week, the age limit was 21.

Requiring custom paint-sprayers to be licensed.

Allowing teachers to accumulate their 10 days annual sick leave up to 60, rather than the previous limit of 20.

Permitting cities and counties to contract with private organizations to provide ambulance service or to operate them with private firms.

Allowing city, county and state police officers to carry their weapons at all times provided they receive authorization by the respective city and county governments.

Adding a penalty of $50 to $500 fine for the conviction of carrying a concealed deadly weapon. Under the old law, the penalty authorized was two to five years in prison.

Now, conviction may carry both the prison term and the fine.

Allowing physicians to treat minors for venereal diseases without first obtaining permission of their parents.

Vegetable, Fruit Growing Suggested For Hill Farmers

Mr. and Mrs. David Fessler, Jr. and baby and Mr. and Mrs. David Fessler Sr., all of Ohio, called on Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lewis Saturday.

We extend our sincere sympathy to Mrs. Carrie Pack and family in the bereavement of her husband Rainey Pack, who passed away unexpectedly this morning.

The Sewell Hamilton had an unexpected family reunion Sunday. Era Nell Black of Charleston called Sunday morning and said she, Karen, and Greg were driving down for the day. The Hills, Denzil, Paula, Deanna, Kelli, and Delynda, were soon notified that we all would have dinner together. So after Sunday school, Denzil and I came to finish dinner and had it ready to serve when the Blacks arrived. All stayed till near 6:00 p.m. Sunday. We missed Russell Black who doesn't get away from his job at Karawha Airport every time he would like to.

We had a wonderful time at Eastern Star Meeting at West Liberty last night. Juanita Bonanno and Kathy Blewens were initiated into our order. A large crowd of Kathy's uncles, aunts, and cousins from Elkfork and Ohio were there to see her initiated and several of Juanita's family surprised her by being present — A cousin from New York a friend from Florida, an aunt from Middletown, Ohio, a sister from Dayton, a cousin from Lexington, Her sister, Pearl Patton, of Morehead presided in the East, and Katherine Elam Hocker of Lexington in the West. Due to Pearl's invitation several from Morehead attended.

Congratulations to Gerald Litteral in his promotion to president of the Sportsman's Club in the State of New Jersey. Congratulations also to Pam Oldfield of White Oak for her winning entry in the horse show at West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Hamilton, returned Sunday June 28, from a week's vacation in West Virginia. They went to Charleston and visited with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Black, Karen and Greg, who had their camper stocked with supplies for a camping and fishing trip into the Monongahela National Forest.

First day of the trip we drove to Moorefield in the Northeastern part of the state, visited briefly with a friend of Era Nell's, who together with her two sons operated a large dairy. She took us to a private camp site on her farm on the banks of the South Branch Potomac River, a real fishing spot.

This was our first venture in camping out, but after a long drive, and all trying out our rods and reels with pretty fair luck, then relaxing around the camp fire, reassuring our selves that we were actually camping on the famous Potomac, we settled down for a good night and after that we were full fledged campers. The Blacks' charted our course and the next morning we took a drive into Maryland, then headed south. Of course we couldn't see all of the 808,090 acres, but they took us to many of the outstanding tourist attractions and we spent four days in this magnificent forest.

We stood atop Spruce Knob, the highest point in West Virginia at an elevation of 4,862 ft. and looked out over blue, misty mountaintops in all directions and the Great Smokies can't boast of anything more beautiful.

We visited Black Waters Falls, The Cranberry Glades, Spruce Knob Lake, and many other points of interest. The Federal Trout Fish Hatchery near Elkins is quite something.

More than 40 "UATS," 100 by 8 feet, with trout fish from a few inches long up to full-grown stocking size.

If they had only furnished us a dipping net we would have been in business there. They did let us see them though at our own range, and we could hardly leave that place.

All in all, we truly enjoyed the trip immensely.

Less speed and more courtesy in your driving will help.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
Having been transplanted in Florida a year ago makes me love Kentucky more, if possible. I am a "dyed-in-the-wool" Morgan County, living there all my life until after the death of my husband in 1950 when I moved to Lexington, Ky., where I resided for 19 years. My roots were so deeply grounded in my native soil that it was most difficult to uproot there and come to an "appendage" called Florida to make it my home. There is an old saying, "you never miss the water until the well goes dry." I would like to rephrase that to read, "You never miss Kentucky until you say goodbye."
With kindest personal regards to all my friends of yester-year, wherever located in this grand old U.S.A.
Respectfully,

5 MILES OF US-23 TO COST $9,812,754
PRESTONSBURG, KY. — Slightly less than five miles of the new US-23 four-lane highway in Floyd county will cost $9,812,754. It was revealed when bids were opened last week on three sectors, totaling 4.86 miles. J. D. Barter Construction Co. of Harrisburg, Ill. was low bidder.

It's from difficult to impossible to convince a car salesman that inflation has also increased the dollar value of the car you want to trade in.

OBITUARY

McCLURE

Dr. Claude M. McClure, 81, of Franklin, Ind. and formerly of Morgan County, died Saturday, May 23, in a Franklin hospital following a severe stroke.

He was the son of the late James H. and Alma Haney McClure and was born Jan. 29, 1919, to Inez Carter. To this union were born one daughter, Marion, and one son, Christian McClure.

Dr. McClure first surrendered his life to Christ at the tender age of nine, due in large measure to the Christian influence of his parents and the kindly encouragement of an uncle, Harlan McClure, who was an early horse-back rider, itinerant preacher. Self-supported through early schooling days at Hazel Green Academy (Hazel Green, Ky.) and Asbury College at Wilmore, Ky., he finally gained his ministerial education at Bluff School of Theology in Denver, Colorado. Much of this educational expense was supported by his teaching and preaching in Kentucky, Kansas and Colorado.

Dr. McClure transferred to the Northeast Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church in 1922 and his first appointment was Linden, Indiana. From Linden he was appointed to Rockville in 1926, then to Frankfort First Church in 1929, and to Gobin Memorial in Greencastle in 1936. It was during his ministry at Gobin Memorial that DePauw University conferred upon Claude McClure the degree of Doctor of Divinity in June of 1941. He thereafter served his church and his God as District Superintendent of the Greencastle District and as pastor of First Church, Crawfordsville.

Certainly foremost among the "stars in the crown" of this dedicated Christian servant was the personal service he performed in his career as chaplain of The Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis, Indiana. His service to God and man there extended over the fourteen years prior to his retirement from the active ministry in 1962. On the occasion of Dr. McClure's formal retirement, the Executive Director of the Hospital, Jack A. L. Hahn, stated that, "during his 14 years as chaplain, Dr. McClure had made 270,000 bedside calls, counseled 2,500 employees and students, held conferences with 4,000 high school pupils considering nursing as a career, and delivered 1,000 sermons and public addresses."

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Inez McClure; one daughter, Mrs. Marion McClure Bittles of California; one son, Christian Matthew McClure of Indianapolis, Ind.; and six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Nancy Ferguson of Grassy Creek and Mrs. Stella Buchanan of Hazel Green.

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath appointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised."

—Luke 4:18

TO FRACK NO. 2 WELL

Preparatory work is being done this week for fracturing well No. 2 on the Nickell lease on Stick Branch near Adele. The "frack" job was delayed because the well's promoter, Richard Drake, of Joliet, Ill., had to go to Mayo Clinic for a scheduled checkup after surgery on his neck a few years ago. He returned to Montgomery Tuesday.

The well, drilled to 2,004 feet some months ago, was delayed when drillers lost the tools at that depth. All conventional methods of recovering the tools failed. Then Mr. Drake contracted with an Illinois firm to drill past the lost tools, using a rotary rig. This was completed two weeks ago, the drill penetrating to the 2,020 feet depth. The well has a good show of oil and is near well No. 1 that has been producing for more than 20 years.

Dow will fracture the well after preparatory work is done this week.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Kentuckians are good fishermen. Lake Tohopekaliga here in Florida is a haven for most people. They come here from all over the U. S. A. and some from Canada for no other purpose than to dodge the cold weather and to try their luck at fishing. There are lots of cattle ranches here too, but in these fishing camps most everyone is interested in the lake. My youngest son, Roy, and his wife, Jannis, own and operate a fish camp here at Kissimmee on the lake, but what I'm trying to get at is that four men from up your way just recently caught 676 pounds of bass in one week. The biggest bass weighed 11 pounds and 12 ounces. So you see I am not the only one who likes to fish. As most of you know I am from Florress and spent my younger days up and down Elk Fork fishing. My sister, Florence Elam, likes that section of the country still.

I married Talitha Templeton 46 years ago. My youngest son, Roy Hager, was the last of our four children to get married. He married Jannis Griffiths who owned this fish camp we stay in. As for me and Talitha we have been here about two years and like here very much. Roy and Jannis have boats, cabins for rent and food to serve. They also have a small store where they sell fishing license, fishing supplies and eats.

We'll be more than glad to see any of our friends from Kentucky hills or anyone else is welcome. Try and beat those four fishermen who caught so many bass.

Yours truly
